Badminton House

Badminton House lies in the heart of the Gloucestershire countryside and is home to the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort. The House dates from the 17th century and is set in a beautiful deer park which hosts the world famous Badminton Horse Trials. The game of Badminton was invented in the house in 1863.

Whilst it remains a private family home, Badminton House offers a wonderful venue for weddings, dinners and other private parties. It is equally suitable for corporate meetings and hospitality. With a number of large and smaller rooms available, each with their own distinctive style, this beautiful and historic house can provide the perfect backdrop for a wide range of events.

The Old Hall

The Old Hall has been the dining hall for successive Dukes, their families and their households since the 18th century. It can seat up to 60 guests or 120 standing. The dining table pictured can seat up to 30.

This room is an ideal venue for weddings and other private parties or is equally suitable for meetings and conferences.

The Old Kitchen

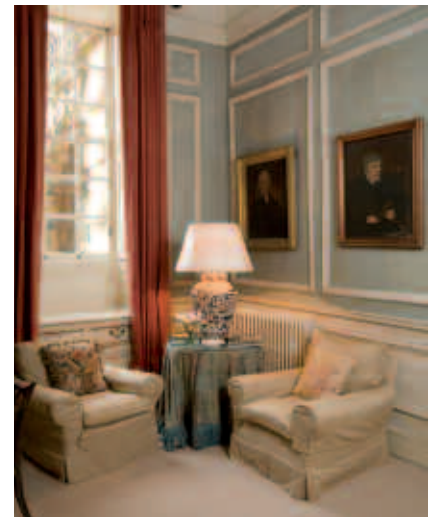

The Old Kitchen, with its magnificent working range and the original copper pans and utensils, adjoins The Old Hall. It can also seat up to 60 guests or 120 standing. Used alone or in conjunction with The Old Hall, this room provides a venue of great character and is equally suited to private or corporate use.

The Stewards Room

This elegant drawing room, which leads off the main entrance hall, provides a reception area for events in the Old Hall and Old Kitchen. Alternatively, it can provide the perfect place to entertain your guests before and after smaller lunches, dinners or meetings in the adjoining Small Dining Room.

The Small Dining Room

For more intimate dining and meetings The Small Dining Room can comfortably seat up to 12 guests. This room, together with The Stewards Room, can also offer smaller meeting rooms for events using the Old Hall and Old Kitchen.

The Church

Badminton Church has been the family and village church since it was built by the 5th Duke in 1785. By arrangement with the Vicar, it can be used for weddings and blessings and can comfortably seat up to 200. It stands a short walk through the South Garden from the Old Hall and the gardens beside the church make an ideal backdrop for photographs.

The South Garden

Guests are welcome to enjoy the beautiful South Garden by the church.

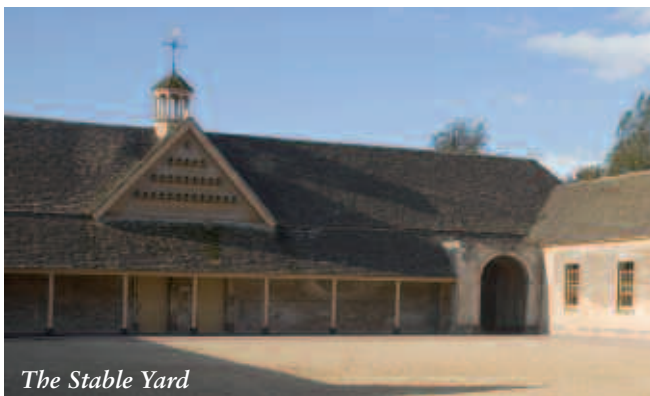

By prior arrangement, visits to the gardens can also be arranged for private groups.
